CREATING A PATH FOR STUDENT SUCCESS

The last three years have been extraordinary ones for higher education, quickly moving online instruction and services from the margin to the mainstream. As we look ahead to our 2030 statewide educational attainment goal, it's clear that some of the challenges campuses already were facing – enrollment dips, price sensitivity, and inequitable student outcomes – have only accelerated during COVID. CPE President Aaron Thompson will set the stage for this year's Summit, focusing on our accomplishments through these tough times while also highlighting where challenges remain, and providing a path forward to ensure true student success.

- Dr. Aaron Thompson, President, Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education

NATIONAL MENTAL HEALTH LANDSCAPE AND STRATEGIES FOR CREATING SUSTAINABLE CHANGE

Dr. Okolo will provide remarks on the current state of mental health across the higher education landscape, including how federal, state and institutional level leaders are responding to the increased and pressing demands for student resources and supports on campus. Backed by current data, Dr. Okolo will provide her perspective on the 5 key considerations higher education leaders must make in addressing the college mental health crisis and to ensure colleges and universities across the nation remain student centered.

- Dr. Zainab Okolo, Strategy Officer, Lumina Foundation

KENTUCKY STUDENT SUCCESS PATHWAYS & PRIORITIES

The Kentucky Student Success Collaborative (KYSSC) is the first center in the country partnering with all two-year and four-year, public and private institutions in a state. In support of Kentucky's 60x30 educational attainment goal, the Collaborative connects the dots across the student success framework to provide a coherent and comprehensive approach to addressing some of the most persistent and complex barriers to student success. This session provides an update on KYSSC priorities and outlines how the annual Student Success Summit is the anchor and launch of important work to come.

CONNECT THE PATH: Transfer Strategy

Promoting and facilitating the seamless transfer of students and credits among institutions is an essential piece of the attainment puzzle. By smoothing students' transitions between institutions, we can help more students reach their education goals and experience the value of higher education. This session will introduce Kentucky's transfer strategy and a continuous improvement approach to move institutions from piloting of projects to large scale fundamental change.

CHART THE PATH: Transforming the Gateway Course Experience

In this interactive workshop, Gardner Institute staff and fellows will draw on their decades of course redesign expertise, derived from work with hundreds of postsecondary institutions across the United States. In addition to sharing information from the body of scholarship on teaching, learning, and success in gateway courses, the session will provide a structure in which participants can situate their own nascent and/or existing gateway course improvement efforts. The participants will apply this framework to plan for and/or advance their own gateway course redesign efforts at their own institutions.

- Dr. Drew Koch, Chief Executive Director, Gardner Institute

CONTINUE THE PATH: Supporting Student Basic Needs

Many students face challenges accessing and completing a postsecondary credential due to affordability and living costs. A variety of public programs exist that can support students' basic needs, and institutions play a critical role in ensuring they are aware of and know how to access the full scope of resources available to them. We will explore how connecting students to public benefits complements existing higher education efforts to help students succeed.
